reading and textual interpretation are ordinary human activities performed inside as well as outside academia but precisely how they function as unique sources of knowledge is not well understood in this book rené van woudenberg explores the nature of reading and how it is distinct from perception and attending to testimony which are two widely acknowledged knowledge sources after distinguishing seven accounts of interpretation van woudenberg discusses the question of whether all reading inevitably involves interpretation and shows that although reading and interpretation often go together they are distinct activities he goes on to argue that both reading and interpretation can be paths to realistically conceived truth and explains the conditions under which we are justified in believing that they do indeed lead us to the truth along the way he offers clear and novel analyses of reading meaning interpretation and interpretative knowledge mathematics as a science of patterns is the definitive exposition of a system of ideas about the nature of mathematics which michael resnik has been elaborating for a number of years in calling mathematics a science he implies that it has a factual subject matter and that mathematical knowledge is on a par with other scientific knowledge in calling it a science of patterns he expresses his commitment to a structuralist philosophy of mathematics he links this to a defence of realism about the metaphysics of mathematics the view that mathematics is about things that really exist resnik s distinctive philosophy of mathematics is here presented in an accessible and systematic form it will be of value not only to specialists in this area but to philosophers mathematicians and logicians interested in the relationship between these three disciplines or in truth realism and epistemology justification as ignorance offers an original account of epistemic justification as both non factive and luminous vindicating core internalist intuitions without construing justification as an internal condition knowable by reflection alone sven rosenkranz conceives of justification in its doxastic and propositional varieties as a kind of epistemic possibility of knowing and of being in a position to know his account contrasts with recent alternative views that characterize justification in terms of the metaphysical possibility of knowing instead he develops a suitable non normal multi modal epistemic logic for knowledge and being in a position to know that respects the finding that these notions create hyperintensional contexts he also defends his conception of justification against well known anti luminosity arguments shows that the account allows for fruitful applications and principled solutions to the lottery and preface paradoxes and provides a metaphysics of justification and its varying degrees of strength that is compatible with core assumptions of the knowledge first approach and disjunctivist conceptions of mental states
